Luxaire® Liberties™ Plus Dealers Can Access Online Training Materials Through PCs and Mobile Devices

ProficienTECH training programs now available online

NORMAN, OKLA. – (January 23, 2009) – Luxaire® Liberties™ Plus dealers can now use PCs and mobile devices to access Luxaire (www.luxairebelievesinme.com) training programs and take advantage of self-paced educational opportunities.

Effective Jan. 1, 2009, Luxaire moved its entire library of ProficienTECH training materials online.

“Now, dealers can access all of the training video previously released as DVDs and the accompanying software for Windows by visiting the Media Center on the Johnson Controls Unitary Products Technical Training site,” explained Scott Nelmark, training services manager for Johnson Controls. “And for dealers who use mobile devices, iDevice Central will provide the ProficienTECH library in a mobile-friendly format designed for the iPod Classic, Touch and Nano. In effect, technicians can carry an entire library of video training in their pockets.”

ProficienTECH online training is a self-paced learning system accessible to registered Luxaire Liberties dealers 24/7, enabling them to learn at their own pace and on their own schedule. Each session in the interactive tool is narrated with full audio and user-controlled features. Dealers are able to check their skills as they advance through a course and are required to take an online exam at the conclusion of each program.

Past training programs have offered an array of materials that provide important information about Luxaire air conditioners, 40-inch modulating gas furnaces, heat pumps, 33-inch single-stage gas furnaces and 33-inch modulating gas furnaces.

The Liberties Program provides a host of other cost-effective services designed to help participating dealers manage their businesses. Features of the program include leasing options, financial programs, professionally designed sales and marketing tools, training programs and employee benefits.

Luxaire® products from Johnson Controls, Inc., include high-performance residential central air-conditioners, heat pumps, furnaces and accessories and light-commercial, packaged heating and cooling systems marketed through a network of distributors and delivered to home- and building-owners through independent Luxaire heating and air conditioning dealers. For more information about Luxaire, visit www.luxairebelievesinme.com or call 877-958-9247.
