

May Troubleshooting Problem

QUESTION: After completing your evaluation, what is the specific failure that is preventing this system from cooling properly?

ANSWER: The answer is that there is a valve problem with the compressor and it is not pumping. We proved this when we found a higher-than-normal low-side reading and a lower-than-normal high-side reading, along with a lower-than-normal current draw.